DAVID J. WILSON

David J. Wilson, United States Judge, was born in Midway, October 27, 1887, a son of James B. and Margaret Powell Wilson. He gained his early education in Midway schools and then attended Brigham Young University where he obtained his B.S. degree.

At Brigham Young University he was an intercollegiate debater, was studentbody president for two years, president of the senior class and valedictorian of his graduating class. He obtained his Doctor of Jurisprudence degree at the University of California in 1919, where he served as a teaching fellow, held the Willard D. Thompson scholarship for two years and served as editor of the California Law Review.

From 1914 to 1916 he headed the English department at the Weber Academy in Ogden. He was admitted to the Utah Bar in 1919 and practiced in Ogden until 1954. He is a member of the Weber County and Utah State Bar Associations, and was Weber

County attorney from 1921 to 1925 and Second District attorney from 1929-1933. He is also a past president of the Weber County Bar, and was a member of the Utah State Bar Commission during 1953-54.

Active in Scouting work, he served as president of the Lake Bonneville Council, Boy Scouts of America and was a member at large on the National BSA Council. He holds the Silver Beaver Scouting Award.

Always active in the LDS Church, he served as a ward and stake Sunday School superintendent, was superintendent of the Weber Stake YMMIA, member of the high council in Mt. Ogden and New York stakes; bishop of the Ogden 12th Ward, member of the Mt. Ogden stake presidency, and now active in Westchester Ward of New York Stake.

He rose to national prominence in political fields. He was Republican chairman of Weber County from 1924-30, chairman of Utah's First Congressional District from 1922-32; Utah Republican chairman, 1936-44 and a delegate to the party's national conventions in 1932 and 1940. He was Republican candidate for Congress in Utah's First District in 1946 and 1948.

On May 31, 1916 he married Mary Jacobs, who was born Feb. 17, 1896 in Ogden, a daughter of Henry C. and Emma Rigby Jacobs. Mrs. Wilson has been active in Church and civic work, and has been a member of the Relief Society General Board. For eight years she was on the committee of the American Mothers, Inc.

Judge and Mrs. Wilson have five children: Marlan (Mrs. O. Meredith Wilson), D. Jay Wilson, practicing attorney; L. Keith Wilson, with the University of Utah, Margaret (Mrs. L. C. Barlow) and Don B., Ogden, Utah, sales executive.

On July 26, 1954, President Dwight D. Eisenhower appointed Judge Wilson as judge of the United States Customs Court in New York City. He presently holds this position. With Mrs. Wilson he resides in Riverdale, New York.

DAVID J. WILSON, prominent Utah lawyer, whose offices are in the Eccles Building at Ogden, was elected district attorney in 1928 and has made a brilliant record throughout his career, while in college and law school and since coming into active practice.

He was born at Midway, Utah, October 27, 1887. The Wilson family is of Scotch-Irish ancestry. His father, James B. Wilson, was born in Carson City, Nevada. He has spent his active life as a farmer and stockman, and has served in both houses of the State Legislature. He married Margaret Powell, of Wales, who died in 1913. They were married in September, 1881, and of their six children five are living: Mrs. Edna Young, of Heber; David J.; Mrs. Isabel Hales, of Provo, Utah; R. Arthur, of Midway; Mrs. Edith Anderson, wife of a physician at Spring Canyon, Utah.

David J. Wilson attended grade schools and high school, completing his high school work in Brigham Young University in 1911. In 1914 he was graduated with the A. B. degree from Brigham Young University. While in college he was a member of the track team, his specialty being the high jump, was on the debating team three years, was president of the student body two years; in his senior year was class president and debating manager of the school in 1914. He also appeared in the dramatics of the school every year he was there. As an aid to defraying his expenses he also served as an instructor in English. Mr. Wilson taught for two years in the Weber Academy, now Weber College, from 1914 to 1916. With means thus accumulated he entered the University of California, at Berkeley, and was awarded the Doctor of Jurisprudence degree in 1919. While there he was editor of the California Law Review, the university publication, and in 1916-17 held a teaching fellowship. For two years he was awarded the
